Senate Session Is Tied Up By Long Filibuster

Seek To Support President's Veto Of Anti-Red Bill

By WILLIAM THEIS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—A full-scale filibuster in support of President Truman's anti-Communist bill veto tied up the Senate completely today and delayed adjournment of Congress.

At 11:30 a. m. EDT the Senate had been in continuous session for 24 hours and six senators had held the floor for the last 17 hours in a talkfest to block enactment of the Red-control measure over the president's objections.

Senator Collapses

Sen. Langer (R) N. D., one of the filibustering members, collapsed on the Senate floor early this morning from exhaustion after speaking for five hours and 27 minutes.

Joining Langer in the fight against the measure were Sens. Humphrey (D) Minn., Douglas (D) Ill., Murray (D) Mont., Lehman (D) N. Y., and Kefauver (D) Tenn.

The filibustering members served notice that they will continue until at least "a reasonable hour" this afternoon, but a Democratic leader predicted that the talkfest will end about 2 p. m., EDT.

Holding Up Adjournment

The oratorical marathon is holding up the adjournment of Congress. Only a Senate vote on the veto blocks a recess until Nov. 27.

The Senate is regarded as certain to override the President and enact the Communist control bill into law when a vote can be taken.

Langer was taken to the Bethesda (Md.) Naval hospital after being administered a stimulant on the Senate floor. Senate Physician George W. Calver said the 64-year-old North Dakotan is "in no great danger."

Shortly after Langer's collapse Sen. Douglas (D) Ill., resumed the filibuster when he failed in an attempt to have the Senate recess.

Local residents were attracted by the sight of four Army tanks, which were being driven through the city this morning. A bystander, watching them go through, said "We can thank the Lord they are on a peaceful mission, and not like it is over in Korea."

Despite the tension generated by the local wage tax issue discussion in council chambers, city hall, Friday, at the suggestion of Mayor John F. Haven bowed their heads before the discussion took place, in prayer for the safety of our boys and girls on the Korean battlefield.

One of the largest fills being made on the Pennsylvania Turnpike in Lawrence County is under way on the Charles Stewart farm between Enon Valley and the Moravia-New Gallie road. The fill is reported to be 1200 foot long and is taking many hundreds of tons of fill dirt and stone. Work on the turnpike has been suspended for a few days due to the muddy conditions existing where the excavation are going on.

Local apple growers are hoping for a few more days of sunshine before apple harvest gets under way in the county. The apples on the tree need just a little more color before they are plucked and put on the market. The trees have not had too much of the bright sun.

AND REGAIN THE HOUR YOU LOST LAST SPRING

Daylight Saving Time To Be At End On Sunday

You turn the clock BACK one hour tonight, not forward.

To be entirely technical you do it at 2 o'clock Sunday morning if you happen to be up at that time.

Otherwise you can turn it back tonight before you hit the sack. Daylight saving time ends with the last Sunday in September and tomorrow is the last Sunday.

The hour you lost last April you make up tonight. Those citizens who have been going all summer lacking one hour's sleep now get it back.

It might not be a bad idea to appoint someone in the family as the official clock-turner-backer tonight. You can see what might happen. Dad moves it back one hour when he hits the hay at 10:30.

Mom sets it back an hour when she finishes darning the socks at 11 o'clock. Sis turns it back an hour when she gets in at 12:30 from an hour when she breezes in at 2 o'clock after discussing politics down at the Shakespeare Literary and Busted Flush society.

The result would be the family would be eating breakfast when the neighbors were getting home from church. Embarrassing no end.

Goodbye daylight saving time tonight. Turn the clock BACK one hour, not forward.

Or maybe you just don't give a whoop!

Submerged Log Was Thought Body

Police, firemen, and newspapermen rushed to the vicinity of the Grant street bridge over the Shannango river, shortly after eight o'clock this morning, when a passerby, noting a dark object submerged in the water, thought it was the body of a drowned person.

Firemen, under the direction of Chief H. F. Steinbrink, put the fire department's rescue boat into the water, and soon found the object was only a log, which boys swimming at that spot have been diving from for years.

President Is Ready To Sign New Tax Bill

Tax Boosting Bill Passed By Both Congress Branches

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—President Truman is ready today to sign into law the 4.7 billion dollar emergency tax increase voted by Congress.

The house ways and means committee called a meeting for this morning to consider a war profits tax which may bring in another five to six billion dollars a year.

The committee will decide when to open hearing and agree on other procedures. Some members want the committee to reconvene two weeks in advance of the return of Congress Nov. 7.

Speaker Rayburn (D) Tex., has urged the committee to have a bill ready for house consideration as soon as the post-election session opens.

Both the house and senate swiftly approved the final draft of the new tax bill yesterday. The house adopted the measure by a 328-7 vote and the senate concurred later.

The measure increases individual income taxes 12 to 20 per cent for a total of $2,745,000,000 a year. The increased taxes will go into effect Oct. 1.

The hike in the corporation income tax will average 15 per cent.

Cruiser Guns Halt Korean Drive Efforts

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—(INS)—The Navy reported today that a bombardment by two U. S. heavy cruisers effectively halted an enemy counterattack in the Seoul battle area in Korea.

A Navy spokesman said that big guns of the cruisers Rochester and Toledo were brought into operation and stopped a Communist drive.

Exact location of the counter-attack was not available but the Navy said the action took place yesterday.

Meanwhile, on the east coast, the heavy cruiser Helena pounded the Hungsha area north of Pohang in support of the South Korean third division.

The Navy said the Helena's bombardment was so effective that nothing was left in area except dead troops.

In the south, the destroyer Doyle cruised into Chinhae bay hitting enemy troop concentrations and artillery posts in the area.

An Army spokesman estimated that United Nations forces on the northern front in Korea have advanced about 20 miles since the start of the Inchon invasion.

Austrian Minister Forces Russians To "Back Down"

By MARVIN STONE
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

VIENNA, Sept. 23.—Austria's tough minister of justice disclosed today that he has once more forced the Russians to "back down" by blocking their attempt to place the courts and governments in the Soviet zone under complete domination.

Bristling Minister Otto Tschadick, whose administration in four-power Austria includes the Russian controlled areas, told International News Service that stern opposition has forced the Reds to drop their demands for:

1. Admission of Soviet "control officers" to all sessions of the provincial government in lower Austria, which comprises about four-fifths of the entire Russian zone.

2. Authority to "instruct" Austrian judges of a number of laws they cannot apply because they "run contrary to Soviet interests."

Wins 10,000 Mile Race With Death To Dying Father

WHEELING, W. Va., Sept. 23.—(INS)—Sgt. John Everson today had won his 10,000-mile race with death from the Taegu battlefield in Korea to Wheeling.

The 29-year-old soldier, who was fighting with United Nations forces, arrived in Wheeling last night. His father lies near death in a hospital room.

His meeting was brief. "How are you, dad?" Everson asked.

"All right, son," the father answered, his feverish eye lighting in recognition. "I'm glad you're here."

Then the ailing father dropped into a deep, quiet sleep.

Everson, who began his trip home last Monday, made the journey from the front by jeep, weapons carrier, airplane and bus. He was in the midst of battle when he was informed he had been granted emergency furlough.

"I was ready in 20 minutes," he said.

As his father lay dying, his wife, a clerk at the Fort Bragg, N. C. army base, also lies ill with pneumonia. His young son, too, is bedded with head injuries suffered recently while playing.

Red Artillery Fire Stymies Seoul Advance

Report Han River Going Is Tough For U. S. Marine Force

By HOWARD HANDLEMAN
(Far Eastern Director, I. N. S.)

TOKYO, Sept. 23.—United States and South Korean Marine thrusts into the heart of Seoul were stymied temporarily today by stubborn Communist artillery fire but UN troops blasting forward from the southeast scored steady gains.

Advances up to an estimated 50 miles from the one-time grimly-held defense box in that area and the marine-army forces in the northern apex at Seoul.

Han River Going Is Tough

A marine corps spokesman on the Seoul line admitted frankly that the going was tough along the Han river, with enemy fire from the north and east of Seoul holding up the north-south clamp on the Communist troops defending the capital.

He said that the communists "know what they are doing with their artillery" and conceded that enemy forces "definitely not recruits"—are "raising hell with us."

Coincidentally with this, United Nations headquarters in Tokyo released a communique from Gen. Douglas MacArthur which said:

"United Nations forces north of the Han river are in the outskirts of Seoul."

"Other elements advancing on Seoul from the south are meeting stiffening enemy resistance."

"Other elements of the 10th Corps (comprising the U. S. First Marines, the 7th U. S. Infantry division and South Korean units) have moved several miles south of the city."

"The city of Suwon, some 18 miles to the south, has been taken by U. N. forces."

(Editor's note: Suwon stands astride the main highway and railroad line governing all communist reinforcements and supplies from Seoul to still-disputed military areas north and northwest from the Taegu-Waegwan-Taejon perimeter area.)

"In the U. S. 25th division sector, gains of 3,000 to 6,000 yards (up to 3 1/2 miles) were made against stubborn resistance."

"Elements of the U. S. 24th division advanced approximately 10 miles beyond Waegwan along the Waegwan-Kunchon axis."

Twelve-Mile Push

The communique reported a 12-mile push by South Korean republic.

until this afternoon and then take a vote certain to complete congressional action over-riding the Presidential veto.

Talked For Hours
Langer, who took over the floor from Sen. Humphrey (D) Minn., at 11:51 p. m., EDT, last night talked continuously until 5:17 a. m. when suddenly he said "I yield the floor" and sank to his chair.

Colleagues rushed to his side and eased him to the floor. Calver administered a "quick stimulant" by hypodermic and Langer was given further treatment in the Sergeant-at-Arms' office before being taken to the Naval hospital.

Langer appeared to be unconscious as he was carried from the capitol by Naval Medical Corps men but Calver said he was sleeping rather than in a coma.

Saves Filibuster
When the lawmaker collapsed Humphrey asked that the Senate roll be called in order to save the floor for the filibustering group.

Senate Majority Leader Lucas (D) Ill., pleaded after Langer's collapse for a vote on the veto-quashing proposal, passed in the House yesterday 286 to 48.

Before Douglas was blocked in his recess attempt by Sen. McCarran (D) Nev., a co-author of the Communist bill, he said the delay would "give the people a chance to learn about the President's veto message" and give the Senate a chance for "sober reflection."

Douglas held the floor for approximately 90 minutes during which he declared with great emotion that in such imperfect wisdom as I have, I will vote to uphold the President's veto.

Sen. Murray (D) Mont., took over from Douglas and announced he would talk "for about an hour." Other speakers were to follow the Montana.

The oratorical marathon is the last barrier to congressional recess today for an electioneering vacation that will last until Nov. 27. A formal decision on the recess was reached in the House yesterday despite the filibuster.

lian army troops in the eastern area around Uisong, with an estimated 5,290 casualties inflicted upon the enemy and a new bag of 685 prisoners taken.

First Cavalry division units pushed ahead after new Nakdong river crossings to chalk up total gains of 20 miles and reduce the gap between north and south allied forces in Korea to 90 miles or less.

Battlefront dispatches indicated steady progress in the southeastern area, from which Lieut. Gen. Walton H. Walker's United Nations forces are driving for a junction with the MacArthur units around Seoul.

Advances Slow
But in the crucial sector itself advances were admittedly slow.

This applied particularly to South Korean marine elements which were assigned to center positions and given the privilege of entering Seoul in advance of American and other U. N. forces for reasons of prestige.

The South Koreans were compelled to withdraw almost a mile from their advance positions under withering fire from communist artillery posts which apparently were reinforced steadily with ammunition despite U. N. thrusts earlier that cut off main arteries of supply.

U. S. marine and army units operating south of the Han river south and southwest of Seoul pressed forward against little opposition to seize high ground approaches.

18,000 Defend City
Three communist regiments—the 25th, 78th and another identified only as the "Seoul City regiment"—are known to be defending in the city in total strength approximating 18,000 men.

But in addition there are elements of the Ninth division moving northward following American capture of the road and railway hub of Suwon.

A dashing 7th Infantry division strike from the captured Seoul port of Inchon into Suwon cut off communist north and south reinforcements and supplies, but long-accumulated reserve supplies have enabled to North Koreans in Seoul to invalidate early allied hopes of the capital's swift capture.

Communist troops identified as units of the North Korean Ninth division which fought in the Yongsu sector in the southern defense are now in the Seoul vicinity.

and bring an additional $1,000,000,000. It will be retroactive to July 1 and will be payable after Jan. 1.

Here are other important provisions in the bill.

1. A 10 per cent manufacturers' excise tax is levied on television sets and home freezers while the annual occupation license fee on coin-operated gaming machines is raised from $100 to $150. These taxes will go into effect Nov. 1.

2. Complete exemptions from income taxes are provided for GI's for pay received while in a combat zone. The exemption does not apply on an entire year's taxes unless the entire year is spent in a combat zone. Twenty-four hundred dollars of commissioned officers' pay is also exempted from taxes.

3. Tax exempt charitable and educational institutions must henceforth pay taxes on purely business activities in which they engage.

4. Life insurance companies are required in the future to pay about 70 million dollars a year in taxes. The tax is also retroactive for 1949 and 1950.

ican nations and give Acheson's plan a proportionately better chance of adoption by the assembly.

First Broached
The memorandum was first broached last April by President Gabriel Gonzalez Videla of Chile when he visited the United States. He stressed at the time that unless the Kremlin was willing to accept a real peace program and cooperation with the west, no other alternative would be open for western lands but to combine "for peace".

Essentially, the Chilean plan differs but little from the Acheson scheme and undoubtedly ways and means of being incorporated will be found in future consultations. The Chilean memorandum outlines an "international democratic pact" whose signatories would "watch over the fulfillment of the principles, aims and purposes of U. N."

The memorandum states: "Any threat against any country any disturbance of the peace, should be countered by immediate United Nations support and assistance to the nation in danger or by effective action on the part of the international organization to restrict the scope of an act of war."

Top U. N. officials in the meantime indicated they have dropped plans for convening the 1951 General Assembly in Europe and decided to keep Flushing Meadows in New York ready for both emergency and regular sessions.

GETRUE SHUMWAY WEDS ROBERT BRETZ

An impressive double ring ceremony united the lives of Miss Gertrude Helen Shumway and Robert M. Bretz on Saturday, September 16, in the First Presbyterian church.

Dr. R. M. Patterson heard the exchange of vows at 2:30 o'clock, with white gladioli, palms and ferns decorating the altar for the ceremony.

The former Miss Shumway is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Shumway of 513 Blaine street and Mr. Bretz of Sharon, Pa., is the son of Mrs. Mathilda Bretz of Cottage Grove, New Wilmington.

Preceding the ceremony, Garth Edmundson, organist, played appropriate nuptial selections, and accompanied Earl Hammond as he sang "Because," "I Love You Truly," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, Miss Shumway was attractively attired in a gown of white satin and imported lace. Her fingertip veil of illusion cascaded from a Juliet cap of matching lace, and she wore a strand of pearls, the groom's gift. The traditional something old, new, borrowed and blue was carried out by the bride. She carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis and pompons, centered with an orchid.

Miss Dolores Jean Shumway, as her sister's maid of honor, appeared in a gown of pink taffeta, with matching mitts and sweet-heart cap embroidered with seed pearls. Her cascade bouquet was composed of yellow pompons and pink roses.

Robert Ferrell served the groom as best man. Ushers included Harry Aven and Joseph Garasz, friends of the groom.

A reception for 200 guests was held at the New Castle Airport from 4:30 to 6:30 o'clock. Aides were Mrs. Joseph Kline, cousin of the bride, Mrs. Eldon Balmer and Miss Shirley Shumway, sisters of the bride. Mrs. Harry Aven and Mrs. Johnny Dachko.

The young couple later departed for a honeymoon to New York. Mrs. Bretz, a graduate of the local senior high school, is a supervisor at the Bell Telephone company. The groom, a graduate of the Union high school, is an instructor with the Chatterton Air Service, Sharon, Pa.

New Era Of Co-Operation?

Increasing signs that liquidation of the disaster in Korea eventually may usher in a new era of cooperation among nations emerged from the flames of smoking Seoul today and that conflict someday may stand as a sacrifice on the altar of peace.

The certainty that Gen. Douglas MacArthur and his United Nations forces will crush Communist aggression on the peninsula apparently is leading to a drastic overhaul in Soviet diplomacy.

This is evidenced by the fact that temporary reconciliation and friendly lines displayed by the often vitriolic Andrei Vishinsky, Foreign Minister of the Kremlin, at the United Nations General Assembly.

More Expedient Than Sincere

It is entirely possible, of course, that Vishinsky's present pliability is more expedient than sincere. He may very well fear the ultimate outcome of Secretary of State Acheson's program to transfer greater responsibility on world issues to the assembly—enabling it to take majority decisions which in the past have been in the exclusive province of the tightly-circumscribed security council.

But historically speaking, any diplomatic change of pace on the part of a major power always has been dictated by expediency. It is equally true—unfortunately as this may be—that era of international cooperation always have been preceded by wars for it seems that human nature must be subjected to the hardest conceivable shocks and the bitterest of suffering before it seeks surcease in even transitory peace.

Opinion Divided

Opinion in Washington and at Flushing Meadows naturally is divided on Vishinsky's present stand and the real reasons behind it. It seems natural to assume that Soviet Russia, obviously unwilling or unable to provoke a general war, will cut its losses in Korea, escape as gracefully as possible from the world condemnation it has earned and endeavor by means other than military to consolidate its position in Asia.

In this regard, Italian Foreign Minister Count Carlo Sforza has offered a formula which is adopted by the western world might well hand the Russians a defeat which in the final analysis would far exceed the Communist losses at Seoul.

He outlined in a New York address the kernel of Asia's problem.

He held of the enormous death rate from starvation over wide areas of Asia, the illiteracy and degradation of millions and the sufferings of untold masses who still live under feudal tyrannies unchanged for ages past.

The Italian veteran told how it was inevitable that the poor and downtrodden might look to Communism as a path to liberation, seeing in it only the visions conjured up by propagandists and none of the oppression and denial of personal liberties that go with it.

Yet he made clear that these people susceptible to Communist rule are those who never have known personal liberty in any case and who might well discover in allegiance to Moscow a certain brand of spurious freedom at least more acceptable than their former hopeless existence.

It is the belief of Sforza, and of many others, that the ultimate key to world peace and progress lies in liberating the backward peoples, feeding and educating them, and ultimately making them partners in world democracy.

Certainly this was the underlying motive in President Truman's point 4 program—a humanitarian ideal that immediately met with enormous approbation in Latin America particularly and is still discussed wistfully in Buenos Aires and Rio De Janeiro whenever there is the slightest flicker of hope that it might be effectuated.

The Americans who have been fighting in Korea have seen human life at its lowest for the poor of the peninsula are poor indeed; fifth is their inheritance and vermin their constant companion. He who feeds and cleans them first, Count Sforza believes, will automatically win their friendship and support in a rebuilt world.

Folks Of Fame

Sir Benegal N. Rau, diplomat, born in 1882, was educated at Presidency college, Madras, India, and Kings college, Cambridge, England. He entered the Indian civil service in 1913 and held various positions—Department of Commerce for India in London, agent general for South Africa, secretary to the Indian liaison mission in Tokyo, and ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary to United States in 1946. He is now a member of the United Nations Security Council for India. He became better known to United States citizens because of his peace plans in the Korean war.

Born on March 22, 1892, in Shelby, N. C., Max Gardner was only 16 when the Spanish-American war broke out. He served as a teamster in an Illinois regiment until discharged. He was elected governor of North Carolina in 1928. He later moved to Washington where he established his law firm. In 1944 he was appointed by President Franklin D. Roosevelt to the non-salaried post of chairman of the advisory board of the Office of War Mobilization. In December, 1946, President Truman appointed him ambassador to Great Britain to succeed W. Averell Harriman. He died Feb. 6, 1947.

Classic Example

The classic example is Indonesia. The income from this rich colony helped to give the Dutch a living standard that could hardly be maintained without it. After the war the Dutch were prepared to make political concessions, but they were also prepared to resist the tide of nationalism that was mounting to a violent flood.

In view of the state department, to resist this tide with force would be to hand Indonesia over to communism. For communist propaganda and communist agents, the Dutch are a target of the most persistent and patient. One is the desire for independence and the other is the desire of the peasant to own his own land.

Fortunately, an able career diplomat, Merle Cochran represented America in Indonesia. He won the sympathy of the leaders of the independence movement and helped to guide the movement peacefully toward statehood.

Bitterly Resentful

The Dutch are bitterly resentful of America's role. The Provisional President Alexander Kerensky: "The enormous majority of the Russian population dream only of one thing—to be free of this inhuman and intolerable yoke (of Communism)."

HOW LONG WILL THIS 'WARSCARE' LAST?

Washington Calling

(By MARQUIS CHILDS)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—So much has happened in the cataclysmic years since 1940 that events of the first magnitude tend to be obscured against the backdrop of the fantastic history of our era. That is true of the climax of India's long struggle for freedom.

The fact that it came with relatively little violence may be one reason why its historic importance was not entirely appreciated. The pattern of peaceful transition from colonialism to independence was a portent of hope for both Asia and the west.

American sympathy in the long struggle was almost wholly with the Indians. This sympathy in considerable part had its origin in the recollection of our own struggle for freedom from Great Britain: a memory kept alive in many ways.

Annoyed By U. S. Viewpoint

The British, as they struggled with the problem of whether to hang on in part or let go altogether, were often annoyed with American viewpoint which they said was naive and over-simplified. I recall an evening of argument: at the climax of the struggle between a half-dozen Americans an able member of the British embassy staff. Finally, the Britisher said: "When I return to England, I'm going to start a number of women's club that will begin agitation immediately to get equality for the Negro in your southern states."

This touched two sensitive points. First is the color problem in America, which many Europeans and Asians believe is a handicap so great this country can never take the lead in the effort to bring east and west together in a working partnership. Second is the resentment of what western Europe often has felt was unwarranted American intervention in the relation between Europeans and colonialists.

The classic example is Indonesia. The income from this rich colony helped to give the Dutch a living standard that could hardly be maintained without it. Some Hunting Season Ideas

By PAUL GALLICO

The season is practically upon us when a great number of hunters, or nimrods, as they are called in the newspapers for some reason I have never found out, will be off for the woods, packing an assortment of firearms and equipment required to bring down or lay low whatever it is he is hunting.

My intention today is to inquire impartially into the morals and ethics of this annual custom and invasion, looking at both sides of the matter and taking neither one part nor the other, that of the animal or that of the hunter, but doing my best, in my humble way, to help them both. That, as you may have noticed, is the pronounced characteristic of this department—helpfulness.

Theory Is Applicable

Age and reflection have sobered me to the point where I am able to do this. I used to be a violent partisan of the even Stephen principle of hunting and fishing, so beautifully characterized by the late W. O. McGeehan who felt and wrote that anyone, for instance, who went after a swordfish with baited rod and reel was something of a rotter. The true sportsman, when he sighted one of these duellists of the sea swimming about, would dive into the briny clutching an epee in his fighting hand, cry, "En Guard!" and meet his quarry with his own weapon.

This theory is applicable to every fable of the chase, or was during the days of my youthful illusions when it seemed to me that your true African big game hunter with any nobility in his character would fasten knives or razor blades to his fingers and toes and then go out into the velvet until he encountered a lion face to face and tried to bite it to death.

In The Same Manner

In the same manner, the chap in pursuit of the fleet and elusive buck was to take off his clothes, fasten a set of home-made antlers to his noggin, enter the forest primeval and see how he made out. On the face of it, this is even Stephen but in actual practice it wouldn't work out that way and we would soon see the supply of hunters so deplorably depleted that we should have to make laws to protect them. For it is obviously as unfair for the human to try to meet the animal on his own grounds and on his own terms as it is for the animal to make an attempt to cope with the express rifle, the dum-dum or expanding bullet, or the telescopic sight. The average animal is faster, stronger and smarter than we are.

Bow And Arrow Hunters

I have always had a high regard for the chaps who left their shooting irons at home and went after their quarry with a bow and arrow, even though the missile still killed at a distance. But the distance was shorter and the amount of skill required to plink a vital spot much greater than that needed, for instance, to touch off a cannon throwing scatter shot.

The man with the rifle or shotgun will always be presumed to have an edge, but with maturity and study the scales do drop from one's eyes and one comes slowly to realize that this is not exactly so. It only seems so.

For as man has perfected his distance-killing weapons he has been slowly backsliding himself as a woodsman so that I would say each year his powers create terror amongst the denizens of the forest diminish. Unless he is a native or a guide, he spends fifty weeks of the year in jungles made of steel and stone in the cities with no more than ten days of the year devoted to trying to navigate the bosky aisles.

Helpless As A Child

Take his guide away from him and more often than not he is as helpless as a child in the wilderness, rifle and all. He gets lost. He falls over cliffs and breaks his leg. He is so clumsy that he couldn't stalk a stuffed furrer's bear on a dark and windless night. And he is constantly loosing as many shots as his fellow man as he is at any four-footed quarry, and regrettably, hitting them as often. He is such a dope that he must needs wear a cap of bright scarlet or in some other insignia of such rousing color to identify himself in the woods as a man. You do not see the deer going about wearing queer colors to identify themselves to one another as deer. They know.

Furthermore, the human hunter in spite of his semi-automatic weapon carried on his shoulder gets eaten alive by insects, he treads on snakes and gets bitten by them, he sits down in beds of poison ivy, or brushes up against poison oak, he gets belted between the ears by lightning, or soaked to the skin by mist, fog, damp or downpour and returns home with the Sciatica or the Rheumatiz or both, in his bones, where they will remain to torture him for the next twelve months. What I say is that right now and today, it's more even Stephen than you think.

Good luck, boys!

Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDEIS

A pianist friend of mine and I were discussing music. She has studied for many years and is equally proficient in the classics and in popular music.

She has given several recitals in New York and other large cities and played as a soloist in symphony concerts.

At present, however, she plays the piano in a hotel cocktail lounge.

Classical music apparently does not pay grocery bills unless you have either a light appetite or a great name.

But how to acquire a great name—particularly in New York, with its enormous competition—well, that is another story.

I asked this girl whether she was happy playing in cocktail lounges when she had put in so many years and so many dollars studying to be a concert pianist.

"Of course, I am happy," she said. "The people whom I entertain in a cafe or a night club enjoy my music just as much as those in a symphony hall."

"As a matter of fact, I think they get more enjoyment out of it."

"Naturally we all LIKE to do the things that are most dignified and make us appear important."

"But enjoyment is relative—some people are highbrow, others are lowbrow. Both kinds are entitled to happiness, and I don't care whether I make people happy in the cocktail lounge or in Carnegie Hall."

Then she told me of something she learned when she met Sergei Rachmaninoff, the famous Russian pianist and composer.

To meet a Rachmaninoff is to a young pianist what meeting the King of England is to a young Britisher (or an American debutante). So, naturally, she was excited and shaking in her silver slippers when, at a party, she was introduced to the great man.

It was an affair attended by many artists. Being among his own Rachmaninoffs had been at the piano for almost an hour, entertaining the guests.

He had been playing Beethoven and Bach, Liszt and Rubinstein, but also Romberg and Berlin.

When she was introduced to him he chatted with her amiably and showed great interest in her work.

"Who is your favorite composer?" she asked him during the conversation.

"My favorite composer," he replied, "is always the one whose composition I am playing at the moment."

"If I don't like a composer I simply don't play him."

That logic appealed to my young pianist friend, and it should appeal to all of us.

Unless we have to, don't let us do what we don't LIKE to do.

But we cannot all be the Rachmaninoffs of our particular vocation. We cannot all pick and choose our work.

However, we can all follow Rachmaninoff in one idea: We can put our whole heart and soul into whatever we HAVE to do.

Thus we LEARN to like it.

Jesus answered them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Whosoever committeth sin is the servant of sin. And the servant abideth not in the same house forever; but the Son abideth forever. If the Son therefore shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed.—John 8:34, 35, 36.

THE NIGHT AFTER GETTING THE GATE

DEFENSE AND TAXES

The new defense recommendations prepared by the joint chiefs of staff should make John Q. Taxpayer take a thoughtful look at his pocketbook. It's going to be thinner for a long time to come.

In round figures, the defense establishment envisioned by the JCS will eventually cost $40,000,000,000 a year. That compares with the $13,500,000,000 originally budgeted for the fiscal year 1951 and the $25,000,000,000 Congress has actually voted so far. More may be added before next June 3 to get started on the new program.

If some of these estimates are largely guesswork, they nevertheless point to the tremendous cost of rearming the nation to be ready for a major war. A staggering burden is about to be placed on the American people, and they will have no alternative but to bear it.

Washington reports say that $40,000,000,000 a year will pay for an army, a navy and an air force twice as large as contemplated under the $13,500,000,000 budget. So the joint chiefs are recommending that the nation double its defense strength and spend three times as much.

In any case, how to get the most out of the money is a problem for the joint chiefs. Civilian leaders will be wrestling with the equally grave problem that confronts them—the problem of coping with a federal budget swollen from $42,000,000,000 to $65,000,000,000 or more. Income from the higher taxes now pending will be only a drop in that bucket.

It's obvious that much higher taxes are to be imposed when Congress meets next year.

SOCIALISM AS USUAL

In Britain, as in the United States, politics rarely adjourns. Certainly politics is in session there right now, despite the Korean war and its manifold implication. The proof is readily found in the Labor government's decision to go ahead with the nationalization of the steel industry.

This it can do, of course. Legislation authorizing this step is already on the books. But the government had been singing very low on this subject since last spring's election, which it won by a perilously slim margin. Opponents had assumed that it would continue this policy in the present critical situation.

The reversal took them by surprise and some Conservatives are still rubbing their eyes. They had not seen an about-face as good politics for Prime Minister Attlee.

But do Britons want socialism as usual in this emergency? That is the issue, if the Conservatives can make them see it.

MILITARY AIR TRANSPORT DID BIG JOB

Now that the crisis apparently has passed, it can be disclosed that for a while it was touch-and-go whether key military personnel would get to Korea in time to fill serious gaps.

The outbreak of war in Korea caught the United States Far Eastern forces lacking hundreds of skilled men in such fields as radar, fire control and communications.

Surface transportation was out of the question so the Military Air Transport Command (MATC) was called upon.

MATC responded in rousing fashion. Planes were speeded from European duties and hundreds of specialists were flown to the battlefield.

In the first weeks of the war, MATC enlisted the support of the commercial airlines, but now that the situation is in hand the civil planes and pilots are being returned to the airlines.

NEW ANGLE ON ATOMIC BOMBING

Advocates of atomic bombing of Korea have another thought coming if they believe that a speedy way to end the war.

The House Armed Services Committee was told recently that the A-bomb is not the "ultimate" weapon it's cracked up to be. Most of the damage and casualties caused by the bombs dropped on Japan resulted from collapsing buildings and flying debris.

Rally Day In Sunday Schools Sunday Morning

New Castle and Lawrence county should see one of the largest Sunday schools in recent years when Rally Day is observed Sunday morning in the various schools of the district.

New Castle Superintendents Council has been working hand in hand with the County Sabbath School Association in an effort to make the day a great success. It is expected that in excess of 20,000 will be in Sunday school in the city and county Sunday.

The only thing that will detract from the high attendance in the various church schools will be inclement weather. The weather man has promised fair weather and a warm day for Sunday which should encourage large numbers turning out for the various sessions.

Special programs have been arranged in most churches for the day with visiting speakers coming in to speak to combined assemblies. Special music likewise has been planned.

Hope For Early Rally
Rally Day attendance reports have been sent out and it is hoped that all superintendents will be returning the reports so that the total attendance for the city and county can be tallied and a report made soon after the day is through. The cards should be returned to Harold Vance, secretary of the New Castle Superintendents Council. Mr. Vance feels that a spirit of cooperation exists in the various schools and that the total attendance will exceed that of last year.

Paul Weller, president of the council, reports that a splendid work has been done in the New Castle district with all Sunday schools having been visited and a hearty response has been shown. Absent members have been visited which should bring the New Castle attendance to over 7000.

Rev. Samuel Badger of the Wampum district reports keen interest there and that special programs have been arranged. Interest is great in the Plainville district, according to Ed Gardner. The Hillsville district is cooperating 100 per cent, according to James Eakin there.

L. Butler Hennon, county president, reports more interest being shown in the rally than in previous years. He is fully expecting the county and city attendance to pass the 20,000 mark.

Clements, Mrs. Doyle Cameron, Mr. and Mrs. William Kyle, Miss Betty Hovis, Miss Ada Tillia, and Miss G. McElroy compose the standing committee.

Plan Meeting
Program chairman, Mrs. Samuel Rashid, stated that the theme for the year would be "Our Children As Citizens of the Future." The first meeting will be held Tuesday, September 26, and will feature a hospitality and get-acquainted night. The standing program committee includes Miss Laura Blucher, Miss Lucille Lutton, Mrs. William McKee, Mrs. Frank McClain, John Cornelius, Mrs. Lee Winter, and Mrs. Joseph Sabezah.

Edward DeCarbo and Willis Bates were appointed as delegates to the City Council meeting of October 4. It was also stated that representatives from Rose Avenue will be sent to the State Convention to be held in Pittsburgh, October 11, 12, and 13. Rose Avenue has entered a procedure book for display at the convention, with judges selected as follows: Mrs. Horace Allen, representing P.T.A.

Fred Moser, representing newspaper, and Miss Jane Patterson, art teacher.

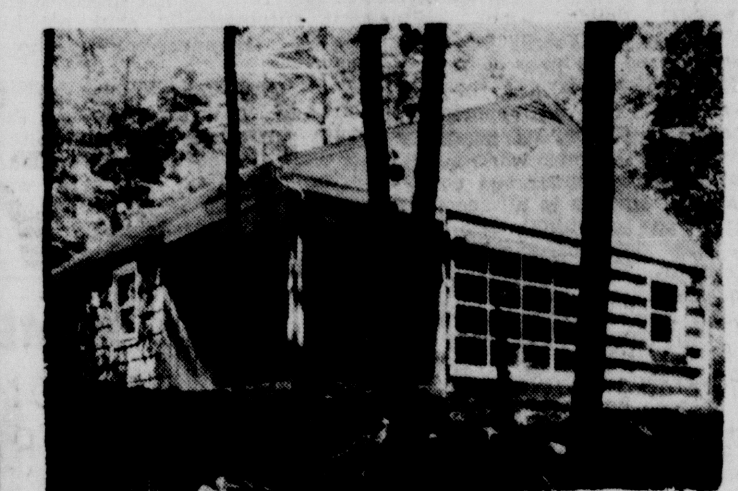

Publicity and publication committees have also been chosen, and these will be listed later. John Cornelius, principal, and Miss Laura Blucher, teacher representative, were also present at the meeting.

STRIKE AVERTED
PITTSBURGH, Sept. 23—(INS)—Union acceptance of a two-year contract, which includes an hourly pay boost of 20 cents, today averted a strike by AFL drivers and mechanics at the Noble J. Dick Lines and the affiliated Mon Valley Bus Line.

Joseph Welsh, business agent for division 1214, AFL Motor Coach employees, said the men will be given an immediate 13 cents hourly raise. Ten cents of this will be retroactive to last July 11. The hourly rate will be increased four cents more July 11, 1951, and the final three cents will be added Jan. 4, 1952. The overall raise insures Dick employees of a $1.55 hourly pay rate at the end of two years.

What's Better Than A Look, Why A Purchase Of Course

We can't tell you how many folks came over to see the new 1950 Federal trucks. Oodles of them if you know how many oodles make a thousand.

But better than a look is a purchase. Just a look at a Federal truck and you are impressed with the sleek beauty, the promise of performance. But buying one convinces you that your look was right.

Smart truck operators are swinging to Federals this year.

DOLLAR SAVINGS ASSOCIATION of LAWRENCE COUNTY
10 EAST ST. — NEW CASTLE, PA.

Oak St. P.T.A. Has Meeting

Oak Street Unit of Parent Teachers Association held their first regular meeting of the season, with approximately 100 interested parents and teachers attending to see the flowers and vegetables displayed by the youngsters of the school and also to hear Robert Weingartner talk on flower arrangements.

President, Mrs. Gerald Book, introduced principal and teachers, including: John Cornelius, Mrs. Janet Knapp, Miss Gail Cooper, Mrs. Violet Hotchkiss, Miss Marjorie Lindsey, Miss Clare Smyth, Mrs. Margaret Ficus, Miss Martha Smyth, Mrs. Liana Leathers, Miss Helen Hinkson, Miss Nancy Evans, Miss Edna Griffiths, and Mrs. Grace Crowe.

The following committee chairman were presented: Mrs. Joseph Campbell, program committee; Mrs. Gail Borst, membership; Mrs. J. E. Leasure, procedure and publicity; Mrs. William McCullough, hospitality; Mrs. Thomas Hartman, publications; Mrs. James McKee, roll call; and Mrs. J. Gallagher, project.

The unit elected Mrs. Janet Knapp as teacher delegate to the New Castle City Council of P. T. A. and Miss Gail Cooper as alternate. Donations were asked for home made candy for the Oak street booth at the Cathedral during teachers institute. Mrs. J. Gallagher is chairman in charge of the booth.

Mrs. John Susko, parent delegate to the city council of P. T. A. gave a report on the past meeting. The council will hold four meetings a year, these being, October, January, March and May. The main goal of the council is to make P. T. A. city wide. A report was given by Mrs. J. E. Leasure, Jr., on the school of instruction held at Mansfield, Pa., during July.

Kouf call was taken by Mrs. James McKee, chairman of the room mothers. Miss Clare Smyth's third grade pupils won the attendance banner for having the most parents present at the meeting. Mrs. James McKee donated the treat. The group voted to pay the expenses of the delegate to the P. T. A. convention in Pittsburgh, October 11, 12 and 13.

The speaker of the evening, Robert Weingartner, was introduced by Mrs. Joseph Campbell. Mr. Weingartner gave an illustrated talk on flower arrangements. It pleased the audience to hear of some of the simple and inexpensive methods that give flower arrangements the professional touch.

The meeting was adjourned and Mrs. Fred Hill played the piano for the penny march. Mrs. William McCullough chairman of the hospitality committee was assisted by Mrs. Edward Parada, Mrs. Sam Vanassa, Mrs. Steven Kavsky, Mrs. William Lambright, Mrs. Alex Peters, and Mrs. Alex Peters.

The flowers and table displays were judged by Mrs. Humphrey Richards, and Miss Rosena McGurk. Ribbons were awarded for the best displays. Several of the displays were taken by Miss Marjorie Lindsey for the P. S. E. A. reception for the teachers.

Eighty Year Old Man Given Three Year Sentence

CARLISLE, Pa., Sept. 23. (INS)—Eighty-year-old David S. Hickernell, of Mechanicsburg, was sentenced Friday to three to eight years in Cumberland county prison for fatally shooting a man during a boarding house scuffle last April.

Judge Dale F. Shugart said "many things point toward leniency" and ordered the comparatively light sentence for the aged man. The victim, Frank Dickson, 66, died three days after the shooting in a Mechanicsburg rooming house.

Federal Insurance Coverage Raised On B. & L. A. Accounts

Federal insurance coverage on savings accounts up to $10,000 is now provided by a number of savings and loan associations in this city, it was disclosed today.

Institutions affected have their accounts insured by the First Federal Savings and Loan Insurance corporation. The previous maximum insurance coverage had been on accounts less than $5,000.

Local associations with the increased insurance coverage include: Dollar Savings Association of Lawrence county and First Federal Savings and Loan Association of New Castle.

The higher coverage follows the signing into law by President Truman of legislation boosting insurance protection for associations with savings accounts insured with the FSLIC.

The associations will bear the entire cost of the new protection for their customers, and the new law affords them an opportunity of securing a further safeguard for the funds of their savers.

The increased insurance coverage applies equally to all accounts held by an individual, two persons with right of survivorship, trusteeships, partnerships, and corporations.

Across the country last year, nearly $11,000,000 was paid by savings associations in premiums to the FSLIC.

As of June 30, 1950, there were insured savings associations all over the country with total savings held by these institutions, both insured and uninsured.

At present, approximately 93 per cent of all savings held by insured institutions are included in accounts under $5,000 and are already covered. With the increased coverage, this total will rise immediately to 98 per cent.

It is expected that the number of persons with savings accounts over $5,000 will rise steadily as the public becomes more and more familiar with provisions of the new law.

Air Observation Tests To Be Held

The last week of September has been set as the first practical test of the Observation and Warning System over and area which includes Pennsylvania, Judge W. Walter Braham said today. Judge Braham is the co-ordinator for Civil Defense for Lawrence county.

The test involves much activity in bringing the installations into a state of preparedness for service. All observation posts are to be activated and the yellow supervisor acceptance cards on record with the Air Force and State Office of Civil Defense.

Observer units are to be trained and ready for real emergency or maneuver test action. Filters stations are to be manned and under their Air Force Commanding Officer. County warning stations are to be set up to receive the warning or all clear messages.

Municipal and township warning posts are to receive the warning or all clear messages.

Lawrence county observation and warning post organization has been completed ahead of schedule Judge Braham says and will be ready for whatever tests are made.

Around Hollywood

By JAMES PADGITT
(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 23.—The most thankless job in Hollywood is held by the girl who gets the stars out of bed.

The "wake 'em up" telephone operators can show no mercy, no matter how late her clients may have been up the night before. The Twentieth Century-Fox waker-upper 1. Nettie McLaughlin who rousts the glamor people out of the sack.

She claims that the soundest sleeper she knows is Richard Widmark.

He seemingly turns a deaf ear to a jangling telephone. "Strangely enough," says Nettie, "he has no objections whatever to getting up, even if it is 4 a.m. But something in his subconscious must automatically shut off his hearing wherever the phone rings."

Can Hear Phone

Just to be on the safe side, the studio installed an auditorium-size amplifier on the actor's phone during the time Widmark was working in "No Way Out," a picture which necessitated an early-morning call for a solid two months.

The opposite of Widmark when wake-up emit rolls around is Linda Darnell.

"Linda," confides Nettie, "seems to have a sixth sense about time, especially when she is working on a picture. She sort of has an alarm clock in her mind. She just decides what time she intends to get up—and does it."

Betty Light Sleeper

Curvaceous Betty Grable, whose classy chassis is one of filmland's most famous assets, is the lightest sleeper on Nettie's list.

The pixie among Nettie's clients seems to be Cornel Wilde. He sometimes substitutes for the operator in her chores, taking great delight in reminding the other actors, in a voice supercharged with saccharine, that it might be best they scramble out of bed. Oftentimes he gets them down to the studio an hour ahead of time.

Anne Baxter has a phone bell phobia. She doesn't like the raucous ring. She has her telephone alarm system converted into dul-

cet-voiced chimes. The phone girl has a unique system for Paul Douglas. She gives him three separate calls at seven-minute intervals. The first jingle is a sort of warning alarm. The second serves as a conditioner and the third is for action! Paul sends Nettie a box of candy a month.

Music-loving Dan Dailey has arranged for Nettie to play a popular tune when she wakes him. He hears the record out before he jumps out of bed.

Charlie Chaplin has temporarily shelved plans to make another picture—starring himself, that is. The veteran comedian is going to direct his son, Sidney, in young Chaplin's first picture.

Traveling at a half-mile a second, it would take a plane 80 billion years to reach the farthest cluster of stars from the earth.

NOT INDIAN SIGN

FORT COLLINS, Colo.—The disappearance of a large road sign at the junction of highways U. S. 85-87 near the Colorado-Wyoming boundary has been solved. Don Olson, manager of the Chamber of Commerce here, said a farmer

Big Beaver Fair Attracts Many

Garden produce of every sort, flanked to the left and right with savory items of pastry and other home-baked goods proved an attractive background for the annual Big Beaver Fair conducted Friday afternoon and evening at the grange hall on the Moravia-New Galilee road.

Entries were brought from almost every member of farm households in the Enon Valley-New Galilee section to be judged by L. C. Dayton, Lawrence County Agriculture Extension representative and Miss Lois Yakk, assistant economic director for the county. Included in the fruit and produce displays were, apples, peaches, pears, grapes, beans, cucumbers, pumpkins, corn, tomatoes, strawberries, and many, many others. Red stars were coveted by the displayers which proved them outstanding gardeners and farmers.

One of the most difficult tasks of the judges was the awarding of prizes for the outstanding pies, cakes and pastries which filled a large table. Miss Yakk was given a taste of each product before she made a difficult decision as to whose cherry pie was best or who had the tastiest devil food cake. The sewing entries were likewise judged with many original articles on display which were created by the ingenious housewives. One large quilt displayed was made by a young man during his spare time in the Army during World War II.

During the evening hours, a very interesting program was presented, with various grange couples being called up to represent the years from 1900 to 1950 in their married life, with ten-year periods depicted.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Russell were the oldest married couple having been married 54 years ago, in 1896. Others called to the stage were: Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McCullough, 1910; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Todd, 1920; Mr. and Mrs. R. H. McKinney, 1930; Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Walker, 1939; and Mr. and Mrs. Keith McKim, 1948.

Marjorie McAnlis was the narrator for the evening program with Eleanor Wilson in charge of music. A girls' trio provided music. Prizes were awarded by Bruce Wallace.

WINTER-PATRIZIO EXCHANGE OF VOWS

A gown of white satin and rose-point lace was worn by Miss Anna Winter as she became the bride of James Frank Patrizio in the Holy Cross church of West Pittsburg.

Miss Winter is the daughter of Mrs. Anna Winter, Tenth street, West Pittsburg, and Mr. Patrizio is the son of Mrs. Marie Patrizio of Todd avenue, Ellwood City.

Wedding vows were exchanged by the couple at 9 o'clock on September 16, with Father Foster officiating at the single ring ceremony.

Escorted to the altar and presented in marriage by her brother-in-law, Clifton Newton, the bride wore a rhinestone necklace, the groom's gift, and carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and baby mums, centered with an orchid.

Miss Veronica Cuhran attended the bride as maid of honor. She wore with charm a powder blue marquisette gown, styled with a lace jacket and blue lace mitts. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses and baby mums.

Bridesmaids included Miss Pauline Senechak, Miss Rose Netti, and Miss Ida Aloe, who wore gowns of yellow, orchid, and green marquisette, respectively. The fitted satin bodices featured a sheer yoke which gave an off-shoulder effect. Miss Senechak carried bronze roses, Miss Netti, yellow roses, and Miss Aloe, red roses.

George Ferresse served the groom as best man. Ushers were Anthony Cipri, James Scialdone, and George Kondrasuk.

A wedding breakfast, dinner and evening reception took place in the Catholic Center of Ellwood City. Guests enjoyed dancing to the music of a local popular orchestra.

The couple later departed for a honeymoon at Niagara Falls, and will reside at 526 Todd avenue, Ellwood City, upon their return.

L. MARINOS HOME FROM HONEYMOON

Mr. and Mrs. Ludovic Marino, nee Josephine Turco, are at "home" following a wedding trip to New York and Canada. The couple was united in marriage on Saturday, Sept. 9, at 9 a. m., in St. Vitus church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Turco, 518 Rear Pearson street. Mr. Marino is the son of Carmen Marino, 766½ Harrison street. The newlyweds are residing at the home of the bride's parents.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was becomingly dressed in a princess style of ivory satin, designed with a V-neck and Queen Anne collar. The bodice of satin featured an imported Belgium lace bib, which was enhanced with tiny satin-covered buttons in front and back. Her fingertip veil was held to a crown of seed pearls. Her jewelry consisted of a miraculous medal pendant, a gift. She carried a mother-of-pearl prayer book adorned with streamers of Stephanotis and surrounded with orchids. Before the ceremony she presented a bouquet of flowers to the Blessed Virgin. After the ceremony, she was given a statue of the Blessed Virgin as a gift of the Sodality to which she had belonged.

Miss Anne Turco, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, attired in a gold two-toned creation of moire taffeta, with which she wore a gold coronet and matching mitts. Her colonial bouquet was composed of white mums and yellow roses.

Serving as bridesmaids were the Misses Marjorie Scullio, Virginia D'Alexander and Sophie Boron. They wore gowns of two-toned candy green moire taffeta, designed like those of the honor maid, with halo crowns and matching mitts. Their flowers were also colonial bouquets of white mums and yellow roses.

World Series
Starts Oct. 4Opening Games
In Philadelphia

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 23.—(INS)—The 1950 world series will open in the park of the National League winner Wednesday, Oct. 4, at 1 p.m.

The starting date for this year's classic was announced by baseball commissioner A. B. Chandler today after he met with representatives of the big leagues and eight teams still having a mathematical chance of getting into the big payoff.

No Days Off

Chandler said that in event of a tie in the National League and a resulting three-game playoff, the world series would start one day later on Oct. 5. American League rules provide for a single game playoff in event of a tie.

The first two games will be played in the National League park and the next three, if all are needed, in the American League winner's park. If more games are necessary, the teams will return to the National League park.

Chandler said no days off for travel would be taken unless it is an east-west series.

Many Views On Wage Tax Are Aired At City Council Session Friday

There were various phases aired when numerous persons spoke, either for or against, the wage tax when Mayor John F. Haven conducted a two hours meeting of council in city hall Friday. He conducted the meeting in a dignified manner. There was little bickering because his honor informed the assembly "this is not a debate, but a meeting during which your views are to be ascertained."

Ralph Audino, A. F. of L., said that in view of the difference in opinion of council members, "we would like to know what you are trying to do." He said the townships and schools were obtaining some of the wage tax money, and did not want to see it thrown away. He next rapped the school board over a contract made for coal last year, which was pertinent to the subject.

Attorney William D. Cobau followed. He said he was a school board member when the wage tax was passed. "I feel it is just. Personally, I pay the city as a lawyer, on my residence, and some on business property. He said the tax had been effective for some time, and he believed it fair."

Too Much Property Burden.
He said for too long the tax burden has been placed on property, which represents the savings of the people. "It is a final residue placed in a home," he said, explaining that, the wage tax was designed to counter-balance this.

He stated he did not believe anyone present believed the budget could be reduced and said "unquestionably needed money must be raised and I am opposed to placing that burden on real estate."

He said the charge that the wage tax was a burden on the low wage earner was no more a burden than on a property-owner, and added the claim that every renter "pays taxes" is untrue. "People who own the property, pay," he explained, adding:

"I would be opposed at the present time of imposing any other income to make up the loss by dropping the wage tax."

"It is not a wage tax. It is imposed on all earned income."

"It is said no tax is imposed on securities" adding "securities are heavily taxed."

He complained of the local "hullaboo" raised over one percent when the federal government imposes a 20 percent income" and added "we all seem to like it."

Cobau said this showed that the attitude of the federal government is that some tax should be placed on earned income and added "I believe the tendency should be carried over to other bodies."

Mr. Cobau said "you cannot expect earned income to pay it all, but it is unfair to impose it all on real estate."

"Real estate is savings and should be protected. I feel that the tax is equitable and I am in favor of it."

We Talk In "Pennies"

"The government talks in billions and we talk in pennies" said Mayor Haven giving Mrs. John Elliott the floor. She said:

"We take pleasure in paying taxes. I imagine everyone here is a stockholder in the corporation of New Castle and enjoys its dividends. But surely the property-owner is not the only one who enjoys benefits." She pointed out fire, police protection, and other city services which are beneficial to all.

She said she believes in a tax that "taxes all". She said there are many who want to rent, and invest their earnings elsewhere. She said that throughout U. S., there are many parents who have children in schools who do not pay taxes.

She spoke of the depression when some service was reduced. The mayor reminded that the city paid less wages and everyone took a "cut all the way down the line."

H. B. Richards said he believed that everyone would be willing to pay if they all understood the situation.

Mr. Richards pointed out that, in his neighborhood, there were some properties owned by people who are not working, because they "had reached the age of 65." He said they had to dig up about $4 to pay the cost of local government.

Some Do Not Pay

He said some others in his neighborhood are "taking in boarders" to eke out a living. He said some others do not pay property tax because they rent.

Richards charged it is considered indecent for a landlord to receive more than the actual cost of keeping up his property, as rent. He maintained renters enjoyed the same privileges as property-owners.

Turning to council he said "I believe you can come to a definite conclusion, if after your labors, you search your souls while at home."

He then asked council: "Whom do you represent? All of the people, or a special group?"

Richards maintained the provident deserve the same treatment as those registered as "wage earners" concluding with the statement "we are all wage earners."

D. S. Pyle said "I am in favor of the wage tax because it pays dividends. New Castle needs money to cover its expenses" after which he pointed out the city must look forward to granting a wage increase.

All Progress Opposed

William Powell said "I have been here 60 years," after which he charged that practically every local progressive move had been met by opposition. He opined that within the next few years "you won't do without the wage tax."

Anthony Chirazzia said that if the city is going to have a wage tax it should be enforced, and everybody should pay. He said "the budget must be met and said 'our city is a wonderful spot'."

He said the question arises, in view of a suggested raise, "have we got the money?" explaining "you cannot raise wages if you do not possess the money."

Chirazzia suggested the wage tax be put on the ballot but the mayor explained legal bars prevent such a move.

Tom Hartman said "I pay considerable tax and I am not griping. I can afford to pay. I believe the rate on earned income very nominal. If a person is opposed to the principle of paying anything, I cannot see the fairness of it. Everyone should pay part of the load. I'll never growl over the amount I have to pay."

Never Paid Any Taxes

Floyd McConnell said "I have paid taxes all of my life. I know a fellow, about 24, who has three children, who said he had never paid any taxes and never will. He makes good money. We have to pay."

A man, from Croton, whose name was not heard distinctly, apparently seem to think Mr. McConnell was criticizing people who have children. The Crotonite told the audience that when children are raised they are called to military service.

Mr. McConnell replied, stating that he was not criticizing people who have children, but simply pointing out they receive the same benefits as others.

John Slizsko said he paid an earned income tax and a high rental and said that, if he received a raise in salary, about 25 percent was collected. He said that as a result, it takes a young fellow a long time to pay for property.

William Hockenberry said he paid about 4 1/2 percent of his wage to obtain a little retirement sum. "Should I have to pay on a little income, I pay $110 property tax. He asked: "Should it be raised now?"

A Pennsylvania avenue spokesman, unemployed, whose name could not be heard distinctly, said he favored the wage tax, a penny on a dollar. He said he owns a home and if property tax ascends, he will offer it for sale. He said he knows a man with a big family who pays no tax.

Thomas Hanlon said he is opposed to the wage tax.

The question of valuations was brought up by Mr. Audino, and the mayor said "the assessment was conducted with an idea of equalization, which was accomplished." He charged some were valued too high, and others not enough.

The Pennsylvania avenue spokesman again asked: "if the city takes it out, will the school board put it on, and then where will we be? A property-owner cannot move out."

He advocated an equalization of taxes so people will be encouraged to building in New Castle.

Audino Speaks Again

Ralph Audino spoke again. He said he opposed it as a representative of the A. F. of L. and charged every renter "paid taxes". He said the taxes are paid through a landlord. He said the millage was dropped but the taxes on the home he is buying, dropped only a few dollars.

He spoke again of the valuation, and said: "I have a proposition to make. I propose you still maintain the mercantile tax that brings in $30,000. I believe there should be a revaluation and then he proposed:

That one percent be imposed on unearned income. He said this would "catch" the person who is getting a pension. He said that 13 million dollars worth of transactions in stocks and bonds occurred here in a year and charged that if such were taxed $130,000, would be realized.

Again the mayor informed Mr. Audino that when the assessment was conducted it was for the purpose of equalization.

Finance Minister Hoyland charged Audino with "pulling figures out of the air" and charged the figures were erroneous. He added "I resent the statement," then said:

"If you, or anyone else wants to know any figures, you are free to obtain them at the proper bureau in city hall. All information is open to the public."

Carl Leathers asked "will the passage of the present wage tax assure real estate owners that there will be no further increase in real estate taxes, or finding the wage tax will not produce a sufficient amount of revenue, is council aware that real estate taxes will be increased also?"

Mrs. Olive Bell and Sarah Sankey McCune said they favored the wage tax.

W. A. Forrest said he believed all of the people should pay of the city's taxation and help bear the city's responsibilities. "I am in favor of the wage tax."

Now In Favor

W. J. McCormick said that at first, he was opposed to the wage tax but is now in favor of it, and figures he is paying a proper share. He then said all of the budget was required by the city and lamented the condition of city equipment, and sewer system.

"I'm willing to pay my share. I think this meeting is foolish. You (councilmen) were put in here, and you should know more about these things than us," he said. He maintained that in his opinion the city council should settle the problem and added: "I do not believe the city has wasted any money."

Howard Warnock said that when the tax was proposed "I did not want to pay it. However, after seeing how it operates, I have changed my mind." He pointed to advantages the citizens have and said one percent was little enough to contribute for the returns received.

Charles Pyle said he was in favor of the tax.

Received 800 Cards

At this point, the mayor announced he had received 800 signed cards from citizens in favor of retaining the wage tax.

He said that the signer probably represented man and wife which made the total about 1600. "Can the schools legally collect five mills" Mrs. Elliott asked.

"Yes" Council Davis replied.

Mr. Hoyland then produced valuations figures and other statistics to show how much money the city collects from property and the wage tax, and said the budget needed this year was more than $1,000,000.

Audino again brought up the question of how the businessman, doctors and lawyers pay their tax, on net or gross.

"I will not question their honesty," the mayor said curtly, after which Attorney Cobau arose and said that, inasmuch as he paid his help, and they paid a wage tax, this amount was deducted from his tax.

Al Mascara, Central Labor union then spoke, saying that in his opinion the renter paid the property tax. He said there are a lot who do not pay on unearned profits which, he argued, would lower the property tax.

He charged Mr. Hoyland had previously been in favor of the wage tax and added "he is now opposed to it." The opposition was being disturbing to labor. "Has he something else to offer?" he asked.

"You are a business agent for a union and you go on the theory that a man has no right to change his mind" Mayor Haven reminded Mascara. "It is the privilege of a man to change his mind. When you go into a meeting to deal for a raise for men, you ask for twice as much. It is a battle of psychology. You change your mind" said the mayor, indicating he had been through such deals.

Denies Opposition

Hoyland next denied he is opposed to the wage tax and said he offered the motion simply to get it before the house for a vote on it.

"How will you vote" Mascara asked.

"That is my business. I'll tell you when I vote" Hoyland tartly responded.

W. J. McCormick then inquired if council would state their opinions.

The mayor said he would not require them Friday to do so, because the meeting may have an influence as to their vote and he said they were entitled to time to think things over.

Councilman Richard I. Davis then explained he voted for the wage tax with the reservation that if it did not turn out as expected he would be against it this year.

He said in his belief, the city is entitled to half of the percentage paid to the townships and charged the city is unable to do this because of politics, at Harrisburg.

He said that when the time came he would vote his opinion.

Councilman Medure was asked by the mayor if he cared to express an opinion. He said "No," adding "not until I have explored other channels of possible taxation."

E. Gene Schweinsberg, another councilman, said he would reserve his opinion and vote until after the school board meeting next week.

The mayor before adjourning the meeting made his stand plain, saying that he will vote for the wage tax for 1951.

A pursued ostrich almost always runs in circles.
